1. Introduction

In July of 2006, Terrace Make Children First Initiative submitted an Expression of Interest to the partners of Learning Initiatives for Rural and Northern BC (LIRN). As one of fifteen successful applicants to LIRN, Saša Login of the Terrace Make Children First Initiative worked closely with Scott Graham of the Social Planning and Research Council of BC (SPARC BC) to plan a community development workshop.

The purpose of the workshop was to provide participants with information about the elements of a comprehensive approach to community development, as well as an opportunity to think about actionable ideas that can contribute to the improvement of the quality of life in Terrace.

This report summarizes the content of the LIRN sponsored Terrace workshop entitled: “Community Development and You: Linking Economic, Environmental, Cultural and Social Planning, Networking and Action”. The first part of the report offers an explanation of the LIRN partnership, as well as the partner organization Terrace Make Children First Initiative. Next, a summary of the workshop activities and results as articulated by the workshop participants is provided. The workshop agenda, evaluation results, participant list, as well as a summary of other useful funding opportunities and related resources can be found in the appendices.

2. About the Partners

The planning and delivery of the “Community Development and You: Linking Economic, Environmental, Cultural and Social Planning, Networking and Action” workshop was successful because the Terrace Make Children First Initiative decided to collaborate with LIRN for the purpose of creating a safe space in which the community leaders of Terrace can learn and plan for action together. A brief description of each of the partners is provided below.

2.1. Learning Initiatives for Rural and Northern BC (LIRN)

At the last Rural Summit in Osoyoos BC, 2006, participants noted that they wanted to have regional events in their own communities. They also felt that organizations doing consultations and workshops in rural areas needed to be more coordinated in their approach to communities so people aren't burned out by uncoordinated learning and/or planning activities. They also wanted to be able to determine what topics would be discussed so that learning and/or planning events were focused on community needs.

As a result, a number of organizations formed a partnership to provide one-day learning events for communities. The partners are: the BC Rural Network, the Canadian Rural Partnership, New Horizons for Seniors of Service Canada, and the Social Planning and Research Council of BC. The partners issued an Expression of Interest that was sent to all rural communities through a variety of e-mail lists. The initiative was titled Learning Initiatives for Rural and Northern BC (LIRN). Of the 40 applications received, 15 were approved for one day events based on the communities' understanding of their key issues, on the breadth of partners that they could bring to the table, on their commitment to follow-up on the learning to support development in their community.

The LIRN partners are committed to combining their expertise and resources in an effort to maximize community capacity building opportunities for people living in rural, remote, and northern regions of the province. LIRN is a sustainable development and continues to grow with the recent addition of the Self Help Resource Association of BC, who bring a wealth of experience in helping communities help themselves.

2.2. Terrace Make Children First Initiative

The purpose of the Terrace Make Children First Initiative is to design an integrated and comprehensive system for early childhood development tailored for the community by identifying and researching:

- The key community characteristics, cultural practices and traditions and partnerships needed to support young children and their families;
- Processes to best support communities and service providers to determine their strengths and needs;
- Processes, resources and supports to build sustainable community partnerships and coalitions;
- Approaches to facilitate integration and community ownership of service delivery models;
- Processes that engage all families in accessing information, supports and services; and,
- Emerging best practices to bring the strengths and needs together to improve the well being of young children.

3. Summary of Workshop Activities and Outcomes

The “Community Development and You!: Linking Economic, Environmental, Cultural and Social Planning, Networking and Action” workshop facilitated several collaborative activities. As indicated in the agenda, the first activities of the day involved identifying local initiatives in Terrace, which is summarized in the first part of this section. The second part of this section is a summary of the priority setting exercise, which involved identifying social, environmental, cultural and economic priorities for Terrace and selecting a limited number of priorities for small group exercises. The dotmocracy method was used to select the priority areas. In this section of the report, we provide a summary of community initiatives in Terrace that were identified at the workshop as well as the outcomes of the small group discussions about future community development initiatives in Terrace.

3.1. Summary of Local Initiatives

The table below features a summary of the local community initiatives in Terrace at the time of the workshop. This list is a combination of the initiatives that were identified at the workshop as well as the initiatives that were reported during the pre-workshop questionnaire. You will notice that some initiatives are specifically linked to a person while others are general descriptions. We have grouped the initiatives into four categories: Social and Health, Economic, Cultural and Environmental. In some cases specific people are identified in relation to local initiatives, which is a reflection of how such individuals reported on their view of Terrace based initiatives. The list is not an exhaustive inventory of Terrace initiatives.
